What do I do next?

The Bereavement Office is open Monday to Friday from 8.30am to 4.30pm. On the next working day after the death has occurred, please call the Bereavement Services team who will advise you on the availability of the Medical Certificate of Cause of Death (MCCD). Apart from jewellery, the personal belongings of the deceased will remain on the ward where they have died. Please ring the appropriate ward to arrange collection/disposal as soon as is convenient.

Please telephone the bereavement team on 01904 725445 after 9am, any calls made before this time will not be answered. Please be aware that it can take up to three working days for the MCCD to be completed. The bereavement officer will keep you updated with any delays due to unforeseen circumstances.

Please be aware that on Mondays (Tuesdays following a Bank Holiday) our phones are exceptionally busy as we start our paperwork processing. We do have a voicemail answering system so please do leave a message. The Bereavement Office has a small team so on particularly busy days there may be a delay in us returning your call but please be reassured that in the mean time we will be liaising with the ward staff and doctors to arrange for the MCCD to be completed.

You will need this certificate in order to register the death; Bereavement Services will be able to advise you how to do this. However, if the death has been referred to the Coroner there will be a delay in the certificate being issued. The relevant staff will keep you updated about this.

Further information about the duties of the Coroner are included on page 14 of this booklet.

Medical Examiner Service

All deaths that occur within the Trust will be reviewed by an independent doctor called a Medical Examiner.

The role of the Medical Examiner is to review the notes of the person of importance to you, following their death. The Medical Examiner will have a discussion with a doctor that was part of the team treating the person who has died to ensure that an accurate cause of death is documented on the Medical Certificate of Cause of Death (MCCD).

The Medical Examiner or a Medical Examiner Officer will contact you once the Medical Certificate of Cause of Death has been completed to discuss the circumstances surrounding the death of the person of importance to you and what is documented on the certificate. There will also be an opportunity to ask any questions that you may have or to comment on the care they received whilst in hospital.

Registering the death

The main Register Office is located at West Offices Station Rise, York YO1 6GA and operates an appointment only basis. West Offices is situated near the York bus depot and railway station. The Register Office occasionally use other locations within York City Centre to conduct their registration appointments. You will be informed of the location of your appointment at the time of booking.

The Bereavement Officer or Medical Examiner Officer will contact you, as agreed in your initial telephone conversation, to inform you that the Medical Certificate of Cause of Death (MCCD) can be released. They will then send this electronically to the Register Office along with your contact details. You will be contacted by a member of the team from the Register Office within one working day to arrange a face to face appointment that suits you.

Once the MCCD has been issued you must register the death with the Registrar of Births, Deaths and Marriages within five days of the death. (There may be exceptions to this, for example, if the Coroner has been involved). There is no charge to register a death, but you will need to purchase at least one copy of the certified death certificate. You may need several copies and you can seek advice from the bereavement team or Register Office about how many you may need and who for.

Examples of departments and services that require a certified death certificate are:

- Banks
- Insurance companies
- Solicitors
- Private pension companies

Each certified death certificate will cost £11, payable by card payment only.

The Registrar will need to know:

- if the deceased has been known by any other name
- the date and place of death
- the full name of the person who has died (including if they have been known by any other name)
- their date and place of birth
- their home address
- their last occupation and whether they were retired
- whether the person who has died was married or a registered civil partner when they died
- name and occupation of the living or deceased spouse or registered civil partner

If this is a married woman or widow who has died, the Registrar will need to know her maiden name and occupation along with her husband's full name and occupation.

They will ask for the date of birth of any spouse or registered civil partner still living.

When you register the death, the Registrar will issue a green form that is required for the funeral to go ahead. The Registrar will send this directly to the Crematorium or Cemetery and to your chosen funeral director if known at the time of your appointment. If you are still undecided about funeral arrangements at the time of your appointment the Registrar will issue the green form to you, as the informant, which will then need to be given to the funeral director once appointed.

'Tell Us Once' Service

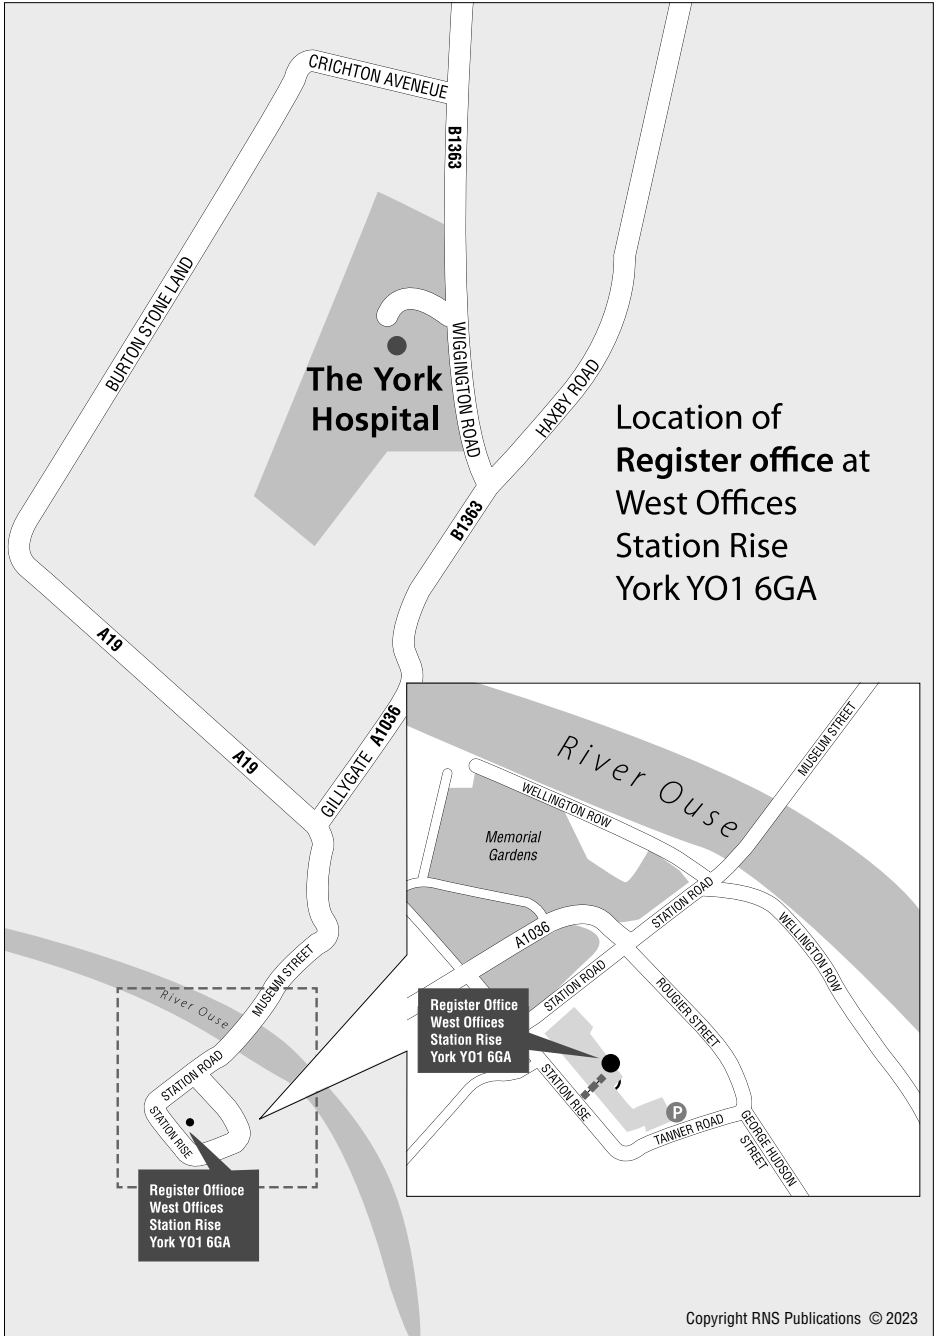

The 'Tell Us Once Service' is a free service that enables you to inform most government/council organisations of a death in one go. This is available for all deaths, including coronial involvement.

When you register a death the Registrar will:

- Generate a unique reference number for you to use on the 'Tell Us Once' online page or by telephone.
- Give you a print out with instructions on how to use the service.

The service enables you to notify the following organisations:

- The Department of Work and Pensions-to cancel state pensions, pension credit, benefits.
- HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC)-to deal with personal tax.
- Driver and Vehicle Licensing Agency (DVLA)-to cancel a licence and remove the person as the keeper of up to five vehicles.
- Passport Office-to cancel a British passport.
- Local Council-to cancel housing/council tax benefit, to inform council housing services, cancel a blue badge and to remove a person from the electoral roll.

What delays may you face?

Sometimes there are unavoidable delays in the issuing of the Medical Certificate of Cause of Death (MCCD). In these circumstances the person's body cannot be released immediately, and a delay is to be expected.

The main causes of such delays are listed here:

1. When the death takes place at the weekend or on a public holiday. However, we will always endeavour to assist in the fulfilling of any religious requirement you may have in relation to funeral practices. If you need to proceed quickly ask the ward staff to contact the bed manager to advise you what to do.
2. When the death is reported to the coroner: see 'What are the Coroner's Duties' on the next page.
3. When the funeral is to take place out of England or Wales. An 'Out of England' order will need to be issued to you by the coroner before proceeding. A 'Free from Infection' certificate must be issued by the hospital prior to transportation. Your funeral director can arrange this.
4. The body of a deceased person cannot be released from the hospital until the death has been registered, and you have been given the green certificate by the registrar. Please give this certificate to the funeral director who will then be able to collect your relative or friend from the hospital mortuary and take them in to their care.

What are the Coroner's Duties?

A death sometimes has to be reported to the coroner for legal reasons and the hospital staff will advise you if this has to happen, this is usually when a doctor is unable to issue a medical certificate of cause of death.

The coroner is appointed to investigate certain types of death.

A death will be referred to the Coroner if:

- no precise cause can be established
- it follows an operation, or if it is possible that it could be due to a complication of surgery or anaesthetics
- it is not thought to be from natural causes
- it is due to an injury or a fall, however it happened, or if an accident or negligence is alleged

There are other cases that must be referred to the coroner, for example, death from industrial diseases, poisoning, suicide, murder etc. The coroner's office will be able to help you and give you advice. If a post-mortem is required, a delay may be experienced before the registration and funeral can take place.

You will have to wait to hear from the coroner's officer before registering the death. If there is to be a post-mortem, the coroner's officer will explain the procedure to you and advise you when it is appropriate to register the death.

The Coroner's Office telephone number is 01609 643123 and they are open Monday-Friday 8.30-16.00.

Can I View the deceased?

Staff can help you to arrange a visit to view your family member/friend in the hospital. Funeral directors also have their own facilities where you are able to view the person who has died.

Viewing can take place on the ward for a limited time just after death, after which viewing can be made by appointment at the hospital mortuary or the funeral directors.

For an appointment in the family viewing room in the hospital mortuary, please telephone the mortuary direct on 01904 726803. Mortuary opening hours are Monday-Friday 8.00am-4.30pm with viewing appointments taking place between 9.30am-3.30pm.

If the death has been referred to the coroner and a post-mortem is being held then there may be some restrictions until after this has taken place.

Organ, Tissue and Body Donation

Organ Donation- has to be considered before death occurs, and is only possible in certain hospital areas, for example, the Intensive Care Unit and Emergency Department.

Tissue Donation- is possible up to 24 hours after death, if this is something you wish to consider please inform the ward staff as soon as possible. The consent of the next of kin is always required for tissue donation.

More information about organ and tissue donation can be found at www.organdonation.nhs.uk
Organ Donation law www.organdonation.nhs.uk/uk-laws/organ-donation-law-in-england

Body Donation- is the giving of a body for use in teaching anatomy to medical students. It may not always be possible to accept this donation. Under the Human Tissue Act, written consent must be given by the deceased prior to their death; consent cannot be given by anyone else after their death.

More information about body donation can be found at www.hta.gov.uk or by telephoning the Anatomy Unit, Hull York Medical School on 01482 464750.

Who can help me arrange the Funeral?

You can contact a Funeral Director 24 hours a day, including weekends. Your chosen Funeral Director can make all the necessary arrangements and can also advise you on all the procedures and documents you will need as well as the timing of the funeral service. They will come to your house if you prefer.

They will answer any questions you may have on burial or cremation. Your own Minister, Priest or religious leader and the Hospital Chaplaincy Service may also be of great help during this difficult time. Most Funeral Directors belong to their National Association, which has regulations and standards that must be followed.

The person who arranges the funeral is usually responsible for meeting the costs. This can come from the deceased estate or any funeral scheme he/she may have subscribed to. It is possible for banks to release money from the deceased's estate prior to probate being granted.

Funerals can be expensive although basic costs tend to be similar. However, the final cost can vary considerably. Do not be afraid to mention your budget or obtain estimates from several undertakers.

Financial help may be available if you receive certain benefits. Contact the Department of Work and Pensions (DWP) before making any arrangements.

If the person who has died has no next of kin or there are concerns regarding finances or funeral arrangements, please contact our Bereavement Services Office on 01904 725445 before you make any arrangements and we may be able to offer further advice.

Who can I contact regarding State Benefits?

The Registrar of births and deaths will have given you a notification of death certificate (white certificate) and a pre-paid envelope, which you will need to send to the DWP office after you have filled it in. Further information is available in a DWP booklet 'What to do after death in England and Wales (D1027)' available from any DWP office or from the Registrars Office.

The free phone number for all advice regarding pensions, reporting a death and for information with regards to bereavement benefits is 0800 731 0469 or information can be found on their website www.gov.uk.

Probate and legal advice

If you have difficulty in dealing with the deceased's property, possessions or guardianship of their children, get advice from a solicitor or the Citizens Advice Bureau as soon as possible. If there is no Will, speaking with a solicitor may be helpful. Many solicitors are prepared to offer up to half an hour of legal advice free.

Probate is a document issued by the Probate Registry confirming that an executor has the right to wind up the estate of the person who has died. The 'estate' is the house, money and savings left by someone who has died (probate may not be necessary if the estate is small).

For applications and enquiries relating to probate please call 0300 1231072.

Stopping Junk Mail to the recently deceased

Stopping Junk Mail to the recently deceased
If someone you know has died, the amount of unwanted marketing post being sent to them can be greatly reduced which helps to stop painful daily reminders.

By registering with the free service www.stopmail.co.uk the names and addresses of the deceased are removed from mailing lists, stopping most advertising mail within as little as six weeks. If you cannot access the internet you can call 0808 168 9607, where you will be asked for very simple information that will take only a few minutes to complete. Alternatively, ask the bereavement team for a leaflet that can be returned in the post.

This free of charge service provided by the Bereavement Support Network will actively reduce the unwanted marketing mail but also can help reduce the likelihood of identity theft following the death of someone close. The information is not used for any other purpose and you only have to complete this once. Additionally to Stop Mail a comparable service can also be accessed from the Bereavement Register or Deceased Preference Service if you would prefer to use them.

Is there any Bereavement Care provided by the Hospital?

The Hospital Chaplaincy Service is a multi-faith department whose role is to provide pastoral, spiritual and religious care for patients and their relatives. Chaplaincy can be contacted on: 01904 725579

Both Bereavement Services and Chaplaincy staff are able to provide you with practical advice during the early days of your bereavement. Both can also help to signpost you to find appropriate ongoing support from among a wide variety of local organisations including voluntary organisations, support groups and groups within churches and faith communities.

Some advice you may find helpful

Living through Grief

The death of someone close to you can be a painful experience. There are often intense emotions that are not easy to cope with.

However, this grieving is a normal process that allows you to express your deepest feelings, come to terms with the death of your relative or friend and eventually find ways to adapt to your changed circumstances.

The grieving process is often described in terms of different stages. You may experience only some or all of them and some may happen on several occasions.

The time it takes to go through this process can vary considerably and is often longer than most people imagine. We are all different and grief in one person will not necessarily follow the same pattern as in another. The following are some of the things you may experience;

Shock and Disbelief

When a death happens, even if expected, it is a shock to your system. You find it difficult to deal with and your mind often does not want to believe it.

People talk about feeling numb, as if the events are not real and do not affect them. This is a normal reaction that allows you to cope with the situation over a period of time.

To begin with you may be surprised at how well you cope and are able to organise matters, such as the funeral. However, you may find a few weeks later that you are having difficulty making even the simplest of decisions. This too is quite common when you have more time to think about the situation and less to distract you.

Sadness and Depression

As the numbness wears off, there are often periods of intense sadness and crying, leading to exhaustion. You may feel that you are not in control and have days when you feel depressed. This experience will usually alternate with time of being focused, organised and able to cope.

These changes in mood can go on for several months, although the intensity should diminish over time. Being able to express your emotions and share your feelings with someone you trust can be a great help.

Anger and guilt

Anger and depression can also be expressions of grief and responses to the loss of somebody close. Anger can be directed at what has happened or the apparent injustice that death brings.

People often become angry when hurt and want to blame someone, even if that person is not at fault. Guilt happens when anger is directed at yourself. Instead of blaming others you blame yourself for what has happened. "If only I'd done this or that...." This is all part of the wish for things to be different and to find a reason for what has happened.

Again, it helps to talk to somebody about how you are feeling as this often puts matters into perspective.

Acceptance

There will be a time when your inner resources are replenished and feelings of strength and purpose return.

Life will be different but you will be able to talk about the deceased person by name, recall happy memories, laugh over various things that have happened and all without bursting into tears or plunging into the depths of despair. All this may seem far away at the moment, but that day will come.

Talking to children about death

As adults we feel the need to protect our children from things that we might find difficult. It is easy to assume children will not understand death and bereavement, or that it will be too upsetting for them. However, we can often underestimate a child's ability to cope. Like adults, children find it harder to cope if they are not told what is happening and can be more frightened by their own imagination.

Children should be told facts in a simple manner, using appropriate words, e.g. dead, rather than lost or asleep.

Give them plenty of time to ask questions and offer plenty of love and reassurance. It is helpful for adults to share feelings with children, such as feelings of sadness. By doing so they learn that it is natural to feel sad when someone dies. Children often like to draw pictures or write stories as part of their way of saying goodbye.

Help

People do not always find it easy to talk about death. You may feel that you cannot show your emotions or are expected to put on a brave face. However, talking about your feelings often helps. If you do not feel able to confide in a friend, a religious leader or your doctor may be able to help. We have also provided a list of contact numbers of various organisations to offer you support, which are located in the “Advice and Support Organisations” of this booklet.

Do try to look after yourself and take extra care. Do allow yourself time to work through your grief as this is an important part of your future well-being.
